About

I started my career in finances. I'm diligent, reliable, responsible, friendly and always try to do more than is expected of me. That allowed me to occupy chief accountant position in the last two companies I worked for. My collaboration with the latest company led me to realization that I want to be a software engineer. I like when everything is in its place and works as expected. I like to automate processes. And be a valuable member of a team that works on an engaging goal. Thank you for taking your time reading this. Hope I'll meet you in person.
